

Field Research Assistant (Qualitative)

BRAC James P Grant School of Public Health is looking for 6 Female Field Research Assistants (FRAs for qualitative study) for the study titled, “Early marriage and Early fertility decision-making among conflict-affected and displaced adolescents in Bangladesh” - research project which is being conducted by the Centre of Excellence for Gender, Sexual and Reproductive Health and Rights (CGSRHR), BRAC JPGSPH.

Position: Field Research Assistant (Qualitative)

Requirement: Motivated and hardworking females with excellent communication skill in Rohingya language residing in Cox’s Bazar. Third/Fourth Year Undergrad Students or Bachelors in Anthropology, Development Studies, Sociology, or similar background. Individuals with previous experience of conducting qualitative interviews or working in Rohingya camps will be given preference.

Duration: 10.02.2023 to 10.03.2023 (possibility of extension based on need of the data collection)

Location: Rohingya camps in Cox’s bazar

Training start date: Approximately 10th February 2023

Remuneration: As per JPG policy

Interested persons should send their resume at: tahia.hasan@bracu.ac.bd within 16th January 2023